dancing four in a room that is turning into two in water floor echoing dark and white in wrist open and resting with hairpins in a half turning spot on you said and looked into my eyes and the gatekeeper took my hand fingers in red touching my heart when reaching above pendulum-knees side side in pattern with arms-pendulum in a current fire enveloping into flickering and smoke in a pause chest in a curve into sitting and resting in a spiral that sends breath into my lungs shifting in a pushing expanded sequens (feet moving across computer board) taping sounds of movement into a backing in a x walking pins on floor in corners of sorting hair in centre making a suite

spot on you said moving into a place of home the passing of time with keepers of before resting floor laying ground into sitting in a breath arms curving the space within me turnings into spiralling downwards fingers grasping to stand and feet making patters
